

Buxus “Green Gem”

A real gem, as its name suggests!

This little known boxwood is a cross between the Buxus microphylla var. Koreana and the Buxus Sempervirens. It naturally grows in a globular shape, has dark green leaves and excellent winter hardiness properties. The growth habit is slow but dense, which translates into low maintenance. Mature height is 2 feet tall and in width as well.

With the winter hardiness of zone 4 to 9, this gem can be grown in a variety of climates. And the bonus is that the leaves hold their dark green coloring very well during those dark and cold months.

Their application in the garden or landscape is multipurpose. They can be used as low English knots, 2' tall hedges, as a beautiful specimen plant flanking a picture window or lining a driveway.

We are offering this fabulous plant which is grown in a 3 gallon pot for a limited time - two weeks only!

With limited quantities available, hurry!
Order yours today for $10.97* !!

If you miss out, the price is back to $12.75.

No further discounts apply on this sale price

250pcs Available	Current Size	Your Order
Buxus ‘Green Gem’	#3 - 14” tall x 17”wide

P. 604-794-3375
F. 604-794-3378

sales@qualitree.com
www.qualitree.com

Customer Name:
Customer Fax:
Customer Phone:
Date of Order:
Ship Date:

